

THE LLOYD BROTHERS WALKER CO.

By Appointment...

You may find the fact that the Lloyd Brothers Walker Company no longer has a traditional showroom or storefront most unusual... It is.

However, through the years I have observed the discomfort of such surroundings no matter how lovely, and the inconvenience of travel for some.

After several years of meeting with families, I have determined that most design work is accomplished while sitting down together and talking casually about the desired memorial at a table while perusing photographs of several examples.

I have further learned that an in-home memorial consultation is desirable for it accommodates the needs of families by arranging to meet with them in the comfort of their home. Serving in such a personal fashion is a convenient means to alleviate the concern about the hours of operation of a storefront.

Occasionally, we may choose to meet directly at a cemetery site which helps gain a realistic perspective and education regarding the memorial selection that suits best. Either setting, or a combination of the two, works very nicely.

I know like so many others, you will be pleased to learn about what makes a memorial selection right for you and your loved one.

WHEN SELECTING A MONUMENT...

MATTERS TO CONSIDER WHEN PURCHASING A MEMORIAL...

Consider what best honors the life of a loved one. A quality memorial endures through the ages.

Everyone has a life-story to tell, it can be told distinctly with the appropriate memorial.

The smallest detail such as a meaningful phrase or religious symbol artistically inscribed by experienced craftsmen respectfully conveys the essence of a loved one.

Grieving the loss of a loved one may cloud decisions, take some time to reflect upon the subject of memorialization, a uniquely personal testament in memory of one held dear.

The process of selecting a memorial presents countless options including monument duplication.

With proper guidance, the consumer will become informed, not overwhelmed, and assured of receiving the memorial they deserve.

Quality memorials are timeless records of family history and offer a place for reflection.

Memorials are important genealogical records. If considering cremation, consider the provision of a memorial for future generations to visit and trace their ancestry.

No matter the choice, whether a grass marker, a garden bench or a walk-in private estate mausoleum that features exquisite bronze doors; one is no less significant than the other...

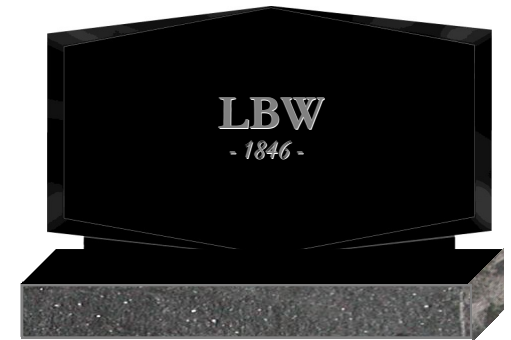

Advanced planning ensures that the desired testament to a life well-lived is in place and alleviates such decision making by the family at the time of need. When estate planning, consider including a pre-need memorial.

If you have just experienced the loss of a loved one, this is the time to rely on someone sensitive to your needs with knowledge and integrity to guide you.

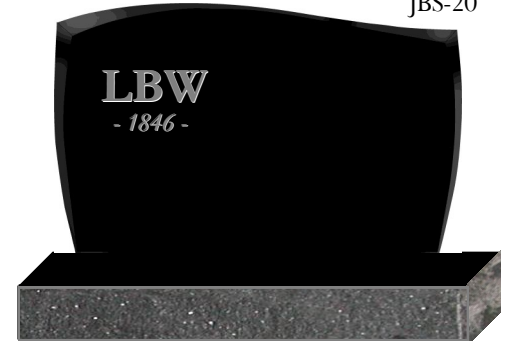

Please accept this as your personal invitation to learn more about our beautiful memorials of uncompromising quality and value.
